

17th September, 2008

Dear Parents,

This year S3 will be studying the novel The Lord of the Flies as part of their GCSE course. They will be examined on the novel in their Literature examination next May. I should like to take the girls to see a performance of the novel, which has been adapted for the stage, at York Theatre Royal on Friday 19th September. We shall leave school at 6pm for the 7.30pm performance. The cost of the trip will be £15 which includes the cost of the ticket and transport. This will be added to your bill for next term.

If your daughter cannot attend, I should be grateful if you would let me know as soon as possible. This is an excellent opportunity to revise their understanding of the novel and I believe that this will be an outstanding production.

Yours sincerely,

D H COULL